

HUDSON HIGHLANDS
A SUITE OF ARCHIVAL DIGITAL PRINTS
OF
JOURNAL PAINTINGS BY JAMES LANCEL McELHINNEY
NORTH RIVER SUITE VOLUME ONE

Reviving the expeditionary practice of journal painting. McElhinney's work incorporates history, nature and travel, exploring itineraries and narratives that shape the American landscape. This is the first publication of these works, which the artist considers a reiteration of his paintings in the form of a broken book. The deluxe edition of Hudson Highlands is a limited edition of fifty sets of seven 11 x 14 inch archival digital prints, based on McElhinney's Hudson Valley journal-paintings, loosely bound in a fine cloth-covered debossed clamshell (Solander) box, with a narrative companion chapbook. The artwork can be enjoyed either as loose-bound sheets, or they can be framed. Framing is not included. Publication date for the deluxe limited edition was November 17, 2017.

Reviving a Lost Art

On Veteran's Day, 2005, McElhinney was hospitalized for nearly a month. Passing the time painting in sketchbooks, he came to realize that the open page-spread could replace canvas as the substratum for finished paintings. McElhinney discovered that he had acquired an allergy to oil paint, and began working exclusively in water-based media. Over the next five years, his work slowly migrated from the easel and into books. Inspired by expeditionary artists from Jacques le Moyne and John White to Seth Eastman and the brothers Kern, McElhinney has revived the practice of journal-painting during trips to Europe, Hawaii, Ecuador, Peru, California, the Rocky Mountains, the American Southwest, and throughout the Hudson Valley. Following in the footsteps of Thomas Cole, Seth Eastman, Robert Weir, Frederic Church, Nathaniel Parker Willis, Washington Irving, John Burroughs and others, McElhinney's narrative parallels The Hudson from the Wilderness to the Sea, an 1866 book by travel-writer and artist Benson J. Lossing. McElhinney regards each of his painted books not just as a collection of discrete images, but as intimate, time-based works in their own right.

The Limited Edition

Paintings in book-form face certain challenges in terms of how each image can be exhibited, experienced and consumed. McElhinney has opted to follow the historic practice of unpacking expeditionary images as prints, which can be perused in the form of an unbound book, or framed for display on the wall. Published by Needlewatcher Editions, produced by Brilliant Graphics of Exton, Pennsylvania and Shenzhen, China, Hudson Highlands suite uses 100% archival materials. This edition is limited to fifty (50) copies, some of which now reside in the following collections:

Albany Institute of History and Art, Albany, NY
Avery Fine Art and Architecture Library, Columbia University
Boscobel House and Gardens, Garrison, New York
University of Denver Library. Special Collections. Denver. CO.
Hudson River Museum, Yonkers New York
Huntington Library and Museum, San Marino, CA
Newberry Library. Chicago, Illinois
